Pick up trash, save your change, clean your house, make your bed—these are all things that consume my mind and at times make me a mental wreck. I have found that these responsibilities are largely unwritten social rules. Keeping up with the model family is a lot of pressure and requires a huge amount of time.

Let me ask you this. What don't you do that you should be doing?

This was the question that I asked residents over the past month. The answers I received were inspiring and captivating. It took most of you by surprise and often required a moment to think about, but it was most rewarding. Most of you started off by saying, "There's a lot." "I should probably bike more." "We only have one planet and I should make a point to take care of it." "I don't call my family members enough and let them know that they are loved." "Probably studying for school; I have an exam on Monday." "Have fun. I work a lot and I tend to get a little wrapped up in my work. I stress out about bills and stuff and I don't get myself to relax enough. My wife would love for me to have more fun." "I should be more active." "I need to invest in myself. I need to believe in myself." "I want to do more volunteer work. I should be more active in my church."

I met a man that used to live downtown. He had been stuck down there for a while. He explained that not everyone is able to control their situation like you might be able to. People run into different situations in their lives. He now spends his time downtown helping others get off the streets because he was helped during the time that he was there. He makes it a point to help the next person no matter what. It is his calling.

PRESIDENT'S CORNER

I believe it is important in today's world to help in any way possible. If we all could help one person, just one person. . . . We'll make this a better community.

Get connected. Be more engaging. Please share with us your experience of good will to newsletter@mistletoeheights.org and continue to write me at president@mistletoeheights.org about being a dad. I have enjoyed them. This coming months' homework is to tell us a story about "The Little Things." Tell us how something so small can be so powerful. Thank you for your love for our neighborhood and continue to be the circle for your street.

Yard of the Month

2105 Morphy

The Yard of the Month for August is that of Joe and Lillian Greenslade at 2901 West Morphy—perhaps the most under-appreciated street in Mistletoe Heights! Joe and Lillian had their home built a mere 18 months ago and, as Lillian remarked, “The yard is a work in progress!” It’s easy to see that, as time goes by, the plantings will grow not only in size, but also in dramatic impact. The grey trim of the house accents the various kinds of ferns in the planter boxes built into the porch. Two huge pots with ferns billowing out of them on the porch add to the effect. The yard is slightly terraced. Flowing horizontal lines create the effect of a river of plants. On the west side are several Crepe Myrtles, which draw the eye to a beautiful and unique stone wall and wooden fence toward the back of the property.

There is an assortment of specimen plants in the front including three Pistachio trees, one Ginkgo, Possum Haw Hollies, and clumps of Hamelin Grass. In addition there are American Beauty Berry bushes and Hibiscus as well. All of these are set in a yard composed of Dwarf Liriope. The Parkway is planted with standard Liriope set in black stone hardscape. The color of the house creates a background for and accentuates the color of the plantings. One of the stunning features of the Greenslades’ home is the various sculptures in front and on the side yard. Joe mentioned that all of the sculptures were done by local artists. The color of the sculptures makes the color of the front door really pop! The resulting combination is both subtle and vivid—muted where needed and vivid where appropriate. I must admit that I have a soft spot for tasteful yard art, and what the Greenslades have provided is absolutely first class. Their high-quality pieces enhance the entire block. Congratulations to Joe and Lillian—their work is an aesthetic gift to the entire neighborhood.

Reducing water use around the house doesn’t mean a drab yard. The Water Department is looking for homes that take their landscaping to the next level without sinking a lot of water into the project.

Three winning homes will be announced in September 2014.

Registration:

June 14-Aug. 16, 2014

Register Now

Judging Criteria and Terms

The contest is only open to homes with 1,000 square-foot front yards or larger. Participants must agree to have their landscapes photographed and allow the city use of the photos. Winners also must be present on a tour day from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Landscapes will be judged on:

- Design: Aesthetic appeal, composition, use of color and plant variety.
- Water Conservation: Efficient irrigation/water use, use of non-vegetative materials (fences, walls, walk, etc.), use of native or adaptive plants, reduced turf area and use of mulches.
- Appropriate Maintenance: Tidiness of landscape, proper pruning of plants (as appropriate) and health of plants (disease and pest free).

In the spring of 1966, I was a senior at Paschal High School and was not college bound. No one in my family had ever gone to college, and it was not in my plans. Even though I was the smallest player on the 1966 football team, I made a higher percentage of the tackles for the year, and was also elected team captain.

In January 1966 one of the cheerleaders, Marilyn Maples, came up to me and said, "Hey Joe, my dad wants to meet you." I said, "I didn't do anything."

She replied, "It has something to do with going to college." I was totally dumbfounded and confused, since I had never even met Mr. Maples and knew nothing about college.

Mr. Maples was a rabid Aggie, and had played on the 1943 National Championship Texas A&M football team. He was an avid football enthusiast and had hopes of having a son who would play football someday. Instead he had two beautiful daughters who were both cheerleaders at Paschal. He went to every football game to support the football program.

He asked his daughter Marilyn, who was in the class of 1966, what she knew about the little guy, Joe Greenslade, who made all the tackles. She told him I was a nice kid being raised by a grandmother, a guy who worked all the time when he was not playing football, and who was a good student.

The first time I met Mr. Maples he said, "Son, I like your grit and I have asked other kids about you. You are eligible for an Opportunity Award Scholarship to Texas A&M." My response was, "What is Texas A&M?"

The short story is that I went to A&M on that scholarship, and graduated with a Business Management degree in 1970. I have had a very successful business career starting several enterprises and selling them over the years.

Just after graduating from A&M I went back to Mr. Maples and asked him, "How in the world will I ever repay you for this opportunity?" To which he replied, "Just do the same for a young person someday."

In 2010 some of my Paschal 1966 classmates decided we wanted to do some sort of mentoring program at Paschal to help the less-privileged students at Paschal in some way. We met with the principal, Dr. Mossige, and she stated she could use help in working with students in the AVID (Advancement Via Individual Determination) program.

AVID is a highly successful, nationwide program design to help first-generation college students learn about the benefits of a college education and to help them prepare for college entrance. They attend the AVID class one hour per day from ninth through twelfth grade. Most of the AVID students are on the Free or Reduced Lunch Plan, meaning their families are living under the national poverty level.

Our group fell in love with the students and the program. In the summer of 2011 we created a foundation under which we organize our mentor activities. We also provide funds to support the AVID program in various ways. Here's the link to the web site: www.phseducationalfoundation.org. Over the past four years we have provided the AVID students over 80 netbook computers to use in their senior year. They can also take these netbooks to college to help pursue their dreams.

The program had a total about 120 students in 2010 and about 50% of the students were dropping out between the 9th and 12th grade. Starting in August 2014 there will be over 250 students in the AVID program, and the dropout rate has gone to zero.

The good news is that the program is growing like crazy, and at Paschal students now think AVID is a program they really want to be a part of. The bad news is that our nine mentors cannot do all the good things for 250 students that we have done over the last four years for a lot fewer.

We are looking for individuals who believe in "Paying it Forward" and have two to six hours per week they are willing to invest to dramatically changing the lives of young people from our neighborhood.

If you have any interested in knowing more about this mentor program and how you might be able to serve, please send me an email message at phsedf@gmail.com or call me at 817-995-4685.

Mr. Maples changed the trajectory and possibilities for my life by making a college education a part of my reality. This program is enabling me to pay him back.

If the college experience changed your life, our AVID Mentoring program at Paschal High School is a perfect opportunity for you to "Pay it Forward." The potential impact on the future of these young people and their eventual impact on Fort Worth are immeasurable. If you want to be a part of that impact, please contact me so you can be a part of this next school year.

Sincerely,

Joe Greenslade

Welcome to the Neighborhood!

Mistletoe Heights extends a warm welcome to the Cornelius Family. Brian, Mary Helen, and Caroline moved to Mistletoe Heights in February and have made their home among the lovely folks on Irwin, enjoying the classic craftsman structure of 2321.

Caroline, age 9, will attend fourth grade at Lily B Clayton in the fall, and has enjoyed all of the new friends that she has made throughout the neighborhood. Mary Helen is a legal assistant for a local law firm, and Brian is an airline pilot for Express Airlines. Both Brian and Mary Helen have deep roots in Fort Worth, as they both grew up here and attended Paschal and Heights. In addition to their immediate families, they also enjoy the company of some extended family, including Brian's aunt, Mayor Betsy Price, who has done so much to support the strong community of Mistletoe Heights.

The Cornelius family has found the craftsman homes, the sidewalks, and the neighbors to be a "breath of fresh air," as they enjoy friendships and long walks, which usually include their cute Corgis, Clark and Vivian.

If you haven't done so already, extend a warm welcome to this and other wonderful, new MH families, as we continue to make it a place to enjoy the folks and the flavors of our "Front Porch Community."

Volunteer with FWPD's Crime-Detering Citizens on Patrol Team

Posted July 18, 2014

The new, streamlined Fort Worth Citizens on Patrol training is scheduled for Aug. 16 at the Police and Fire Academy, 1000 Calvert St. The free class will be held 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

As part of the larger Code Blue slate of programs, the Citizens on Patrol program was started in 1991 as a reaction to high crime levels in Fort Worth. Since the creation of the program, it has been shown that the extra eyes and ears of Citizens on Patrol have helped to lower crime by 40 percent.

The training will cover what to look for while patrolling, COP equipment, COP guidelines and other topics.

If you're interested in being part of this crime-detering team, apply to the PD's Community Services Division by Aug. 11.

To learn more, call 817-392-4182 or visit the Citizens on Patrol web page.
